

LESLIE J. COOKSY, PhD

I am a professional evaluator with over 30 years of experience in philanthropic, nonprofit, international, and federal, state and local government programs and contexts. My practice is grounded in the values of equity and cultural responsiveness. My areas of expertise include evaluation planning and design, metaevaluation, and evaluation writing and editing. I was the 2010 President of the American Evaluation Association and have had numerous leadership and editorial positions.

EMPLOYMENT

Independent Consulting

2022 to present

I provide evaluation advising, editing, and training services to support the pursuit of evaluation excellence and organizational and programmatic improvement and success. In addition to report editing for independent evaluation firms, my recent projects include:

- With the Institute for Social Research at Sacramento State University:
 - Developed and led Evaluation Fundamentals: Opportunities for Program Engagement and Influence. The training engaged leaders and managers of community-based organizations with the goal of providing the language and tools for influencing evaluation decisions by funders. It was offered over three days in three-hour sessions and used culturally responsive evaluation as a framework of decision points for influence (Spring, 2023).
 - Developed and led a workshop on report writing for Institute for Social Research staff (Fall, 2023).
 - Participated in the development of a program for training undergraduate interns on basic research skills (Summer, 2024).
- With Mutual Assistance Network, a community-based organization that works to advance the social and economic opportunities of residents of Del Paso Heights and other neighborhoods in Sacramento:
 - Supported the leadership's creation of an integrated plan for evaluating their operations (Fall, 2023).
 - Developed a plan for and provided guidance on the evaluation of a community center project (Spring, 2024).

Sierra Health Foundation and The Center, Sacramento, California

2012 to 2021

Evaluation Director: Led evaluation planning for foundation initiatives; managed contracts with external evaluators; built evaluation capacity in staff and grantees; participated in the development of proposals for external funding; managed department budget and supervised staff. Major projects included:

- Asthma Mitigation Project: Managed the contract with external evaluators to study the implementation and outcomes of a program intended to make asthma mitigation services available to communities who often lack access to care ($750,000 in external consultant contracts).

- Black Child Legacy Campaign: Partnered with external consultants to evaluate and provide data support to Sacramento County's project to reduce African American child deaths through community mobilization, community infrastructure development, and policy and systems change efforts ($240,000 in external consultant contracts).
- Positive Youth Justice Initiative: Partnered with external consultants on an evaluation of a community-based organizing program focused on transforming juvenile justice systems ($300,000 in external consultant contracts).
- Respite Partnership Collaborative: Managed a 3-year evaluation of a community-driven process for funding mental health respite services and an associated public-private partnership between Sacramento County and Sierra Health Foundation ($500,000 in external consultant contracts).
- San Joaquin Valley Health Fund: Partnered with external consultants on research and evaluation of a place-based initiative to improve health and racial equity in the San Joaquin Valley, including a participatory evaluation carried out by funded community partners and a social network analysis ($225,000 in external consultant contracts).
